

Hey friends!!

Wow, I feel as if the spring and summer completely flew by us! God has truly been on the move in my region! We kicked off this busy season back in Bertrand MO, where we celebrated the one year anniversary of the Bertrand tent revival! On the first night the tent was packed with expectancy and hunger!

A sweet young momma gave her life to Christ that night at the altar, and she and her five children were all baptized!! Come to find out, I had went to school with the young lady and she was a childhood friend of mine! Her parents had been believing for her to come back home to Christ! They got to have a front row seat to not just her being baptized, but all 5 of their grandchildren as well!! Praise the Lord!!! The weather did not cooperate that week, but the rain didn't stop the fire. We moved the revival into a small Baptist church... and the place was packed!! People were standing in the small foyer and even some in the rain outside the front doors to hear the word of the Lord! Healings took place, deliverance, salvations, family restoration and so many more signs and wonders! The revival may have ended physically but spiritually the flame is still burning bright today! Then we move into summer, where my personal ministry has been exploding! But the new season of course brought new warfare.

I've been traveling and speaking every single weekend in July, and at the beginning of July my doctor was concerned I may have cervical and uterine cancer. But God.... I have surgery on a Monday.. and was standing in pews preaching that same week on a Thursday declaring God's goodness, even tho I was faced with the "unknown", I trusted the Almighty! That next week the doctor called me and confirmed I have zero cancer in my body!!!!

It's been a beautiful, exhausting season to say the least. I believe over the last 6 weeks I've been in 10 revivals. But it is no time to get tired... the harvest is ready!! Over the last 6 weeks I have so many things, met so many beautiful people, and been in the presence of a Holy God, but something that stood out to me and shook me to my core, was one of the last revivals I got to be apart of. It was a tent revival in Marble Hill MO.

The speaker for this revival was all women! Which in that area became an issue. A lot of religious leaders in that area believe women can not and should not preach. Don't you just hate religion.... Anyway... We kept our heads up, and eyes on Jesus despite the threats and uproar our fire caused! Hearts and lives were changed and Jesus met us in that tent. The second night of the revival I noticed a little boy, he was maybe five or six, he was praying at the altar next to his mother.

His words echoed," God please save my mom, Jesus can I please give you a hug, please fix my mom." His mother who had been battling a drug addiction laid next to him at the altar desperately praying for a breakthrough. Myself and the other speakers prayed with her... and when we got done introducing her to a man named Jesus.. she was truly changed!! She gave her heart to the Lord and got baptized! And her son watched his mom be baptized, he kept crying,"Jesus fixed mommy." Aren't you glad we serve a heart fixer!!

His faith truly moved heaven for his mother!!

Come to find out, the lady was a pastors kid and was severely church hurt years ago and turned to drugs... but now??? She's back in church with her whole family serving God!!

You see... we think the key that will bring heaven down, is all this mess that really doesn't matter.

It doesn't matter what you look like, where you have been, who you have been, or what you have done.. what matters is... your humble, hungry heart! That's what moves the Father's heart!

So I encourage you today... draw near to God.. and He will ALWAYS draw near to you..

Be blessed.

Holly Garces.
